

Following His Passion: New RISOPS President Gregory Allen, DO

During the summer of 2016, the Rhode Island Society of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons introduced its first president in over four years. With the election of Gregory Allen, DO, the Society welcomed an experienced PCP who also spends time as a teaching physician and in hospital administration. His unique skillset makes Dr. Allen an ideal choice to lead the group in the years ahead. Early in the fall, Dr. Allen spoke with RISOPS.org to discuss his career in medicine as well as his hopes and plans for the near future.

In the very beginning why did you decide to practice medicine?

Before medical school, I worked for almost 12 years on fire department rescue, full-time. As I gained experience and was promoted to the rank of Rescue Lieutenant, I became more and more interested in emergency medicine, and developing additional skills while serving people in their time of greatest need. Although I had always aspired to attend law school, circumstances and chance had other plans for me.

A great friend and colleague of mine (Herbert "Hub" Brennan, DO) left the same fire department to attend medical school about four years prior to me. His departure planted the seed of exploring the prospect of furthering my medical education. Not long after, I experienced a life-changing event. We had a chance to deliver a baby in someone's house one night. You talk about fate. We took a call on the way back from another run that was out of our district. When we arrived, the baby was already crowning, and after some anxious moments, was delivered right there in the bedroom. We got her to the hospital safe and sound. On the way back, I remember thinking, Wow! That's not something that lawyers get to do.

I was really fortunate to have been introduced to RISOPS very early in the process. This group welcomed me with open arms during the application and interview process. Their recommendation got me on the radar at UNECOM, and the rest is history.

What are your goals for RISOPS for the next year and beyond?

The first goal is to put ourselves on a level playing field in Rhode Island. I'm almost

ROME2016 RECAP

ROME New England 2016 marked an opportunity for DOs across the region to network and learn together through a Continuing Medical Education curriculum featuring osteopathic principles. During our annual membership meeting, we discussed causes affecting the osteopathic profession and provided an overview on what the RISOPS has accomplished in the past year. Additionally, we displayed our appreciation for Immediate Past-President James Griffin, DO at the conclusion of his four-year tenure. We also welcomed President Gregory Allen, DO to the head of our table. We remain committed in advancing our mission to deliver efficient healthcare for our patients and ensure the health of the profession in the state of Rhode Island.

We hope you can join us in August at the Hyatt Grand Regency in Cambridge, MA for ROME 2017...and we will keep you informed about upcoming opportunities!

embarrassed to live in a state that can be so DO-friendly (like we are at Roger Williams, or is witnessed at Kent County Hospital) and yet have another hospital system that goes out of its way to maintain archaic and discriminatory practices against Osteopathically trained and credentialed Physicians duly licensed to practice medicine in our State. I can't understand how some physicians and administrators could still be so backward in their thinking. We are going shine light on this practice and advocate on their behalf.

We continue to strive to make the organization visible and heard on other important issues like Tort reform, the "Modifier 25 rollback," with Blue Cross, and the State legislative agenda as it affects physicians and patients. We have to keep our presence at a high level. We are a very small organization but as a small state we have the opportunity and flexibility to accomplish some things that bigger states cannot. To keep the association relevant and maintain membership viability, we've got to keep the organization visible. I look forward to working with my colleagues on these and other goals as we move forward.

UNECOM Admission Interviews

The RISOPS Student Recruitment and Placement Committee holds interviews for students each year who are applying for admission to UNECOM. Interviews are usually held on the 3rd Saturday of September. After the committee completes the interviews, recommendations letters are sent to the UNECOM admissions office. The letters are also available to be sent to other schools that the interviewee would like them sent to. This past September, we had interviewed 4 students, and we know that 2 of them were accepted into UNECOM. Applying to osteopathic school is a competitive process. Interviewing and getting a recommendation from RISOPS can be a very important addition to your application material.

If you would like more information or if you'd like to schedule an interview, please email risops@osteopathic.org.

Update on Lifespan Credentialing Issue

By Gregory Allen, DO - President, RISOPS

As many may be aware, Lifespan hospitals continue to do their best to exclude RI licensed physicians who have trained in Osteopathic programs and who have been certified by the Bureau of Osteopathic Specialists. Although Lifespan leadership has, over the years, assured our organization that the issue was related to "old bylaws" which were in process of being updated, no such change has taken place. Despite the fact that every other hospital system in the State accepts Osteopathic Board Certification on equal footing with the ABMS, Lifespan-affiliated hospitals have a segregated track, requiring special endorsement from a department Chair to determine if he or she feels that the certification is equal. This has resulted in some Doctors of Osteopathic Medicine being denied an application in Lifespan hospitals.

The AOA has pledged support in our efforts to correct this archaic practice of closet discrimination against our colleagues seeking to obtain hospital privileges at Lifespan facilities. RISOPS will, with the support of all R.I. Physicians, continue to advocate for this long overdue change. Please check-in for regular updates on this important issue.

Rhode Island Blue Cross and Blue Shield and the Modifier 25

Submitted by David Bica, DO and George Pasquarello, DO

On August 1, 2016, The Rhode Island Blue Cross and Blue Shield (RIBCBS) notified all of its participating providers that they have made an adjustment to their re-imbursalment of evaluation and management code (E/M) when used with a Modifier 25 and a CPT code. Essentially, when an (E/M) code is used with a Modifier 25, the E/M re-imbursalment is cut by 50%. This sudden change did not go un-noticed, and RISOPS, RIMS and the AOA immediately jumped to action to determine if these changes have been implemented elsewhere and if these changes are consistent with CMS guidelines.

On October 11, 2016, a special meeting was held at the RIMS headquarters with leadership from RIBCBS and with an open invitation to all specialty organizations. The meeting was well attended with representation from almost all specialties. Each representative was introduced, given an opportunity to speak and discussed how this will negatively impact their practice and specialty. Questions were asked on how RIBCBS came to this decision to target outpatient use of modifier 25. Essentially, the bottom line was that RIBCBS has sustained roughly a $51 million dollar loss for 2016, and this was one of many cuts that they have done. RIBCBS stated that they have sustained growing costs and with increased competition in the insurance market, they have a lower market share. They cited that other insurers, i.e. Cigna and Tufts, have implemented similar changes, and they are being reactionary in an effort to stay competitive.

They explained that Modifier 25 is used extensively in RI, and they believe that it is being misused or abused, but did not give comparison to other states or substantiate this claim with facts. They explained that it would be too expensive to audit to see if it actually is being misused. RIBCBS states that this will mostly affect ophthalmology, dermatology and orthopedics that have the highest utilization of modifier 25. This will not affect emergency E/M codes used with Modifier 25. After listening to these grievances, Peter Holman (former director of RIBCBS) informed RIBCBS that CMS has already evaluated and adjusted E/M, Modifier 25, and the CPT codes for osteopathic manipulation. He advocated that OMT should be an exception to this current change considering RVUs and re-imburement have already been adjusted to be used together. In the end, RIBCBS seemed already set to implement these changes despite the outcome of this meeting. However, this was not the end. In a joint collaboration with RISOPS, RIMS and the AOA, we continued to put pressure on RIBCBS especially with respect to OMT. It was decided to change our strategy and emphasize OMT as an alternative treatment for pain instead of opiates in an effort to fight the growing opiate epidemic.

A second meeting was held on November 7, 2016 at the RIMS counsel with George Pasquarello, DO representing RISOPS. Matt Collins, MD, Vice President of Clinical Integration of RIBCBS, attended and was ready to present RIBCBS's medical expenses and utilization. However, he was unaware of the intent of meeting to discuss RIBCBS's changes to the Modifier 25. This fight is not over; we believe that we can alter their decision to cut the E/M code when performing OMT. One thing that we have learned in life is that persistence pays off.
